

Faculty Course Completion Plan (FCCP)

College of Education

This document outlines the course completion plan agreed upon by the faculty participant in IDL6543 and the Unit Chair/Director.

Please keep in mind the minimum requirement (from the Center for Distributed Learning) dictates the following documents are to be completed by the IDL6543 showcase. This required content development constitutes about 10% of the course content.

- Syllabus and course expectations
- One unit/module of content (including module objectives, activity, and an assessment strategy)

If you plan to teach the course online the term following your completion of IDL6543, it is recommended that you complete the first month of online content and activities prior to the IDL6543 Showcase (roughly 30 % of the course).

The Department expects the entire course to be developed as a template course to be shared with other faculty that might teach it. Upon completion of this course, you will provide the course to the department chair by forwarding an electronic archive for other faculty to use (current and adjunct). If you decide to incorporate additional content, including videos, images, and other content that personalizes it as your own course, that version of the course is one you do not have to share with the department, unless you choose to do so. The course you develop and give to the Department Chair must be complete enough that another faculty member is able to teach it.
